He was rescued by a boatman and brought to the shore, suffering somewhat from the brine and fright.

MR. J. H. DUPAIX has struck an eighteen inch vein of good looking ore in his mine, making the seventh vein he has cut with his tunnel. His mill is progressing nicely. It contains six stamps, together with a new twenty inch turbine wheel, which will make its working capacity one ton of ore to each stamp every twenty-four hours. The rock being very hard, I consider this very good work.—Beaver Union.

TRUSTEE ELECTIONS.

Five Districts Carried by the Liberals.

SOME VERY HEAVY SHOWINGS.

Bishop, Whittemore, Millsbaugh, Critchlow and Farnsworth in the 7th, 8th, 12th, 13th and 14th Districts.

The various ward schoolhouses of the city presented lively scenes last evening—the occasion being the annual election of trustees. The chief scenes of agitation, however, were the Thirteenth, Seventh, Eighth, Fourteenth, Twelfth and Fifteenth Wards, where party spirit ran high, and where desperate struggles were made.

In the THIRTEENTH WARD

a close fight was looked for, and there were not a few Liberals who had expressed hopes of gaining a victory. The meeting was called for 8 o'clock, and by 7:30, a large number had assembled—mostly Liberals—and tickets were soon flying nimbly around. Among the audience early assembled were several of the colored race, and all of these had been supplied with ballots. The audience assembled at 7:30, nearly filled the hall, and accessions from that time until 8 o'clock, crowded the room to suffocation. During the wait the members of the opposing legions conversed pleasantly together, and many were the banter exchanges. Owing to the abolishing of female suffrage by the Tucker-Edmonds bill, however, the voters assembled were considerably smaller in numbers than on any previous like occasion. General George R. Maxwell was a conspicuous figure, early in the evening, and later Mr. Dickson, Mr. Critchlow, Mr. James, Mr. Billings, Mr. Remington, J. T. Lynch, Major Bird, J. T. Clabey, J. B. Walden, W. J. Van Horne, Phil. Kilpille, Bredemeyer, and other non-Mormons who had heretofore taken but little or no interest in such meetings came in. Some time before 8 o'clock the audience assembled began to grow impatient, and the hall resounded to the thumping of canes and the shuffling of feet, and cries of "time." As the clock struck 8 there was a furor of applause, and Mr. Taylor called the meeting to order and nominated Farnsworth Little as chairman. Mr. Van Horne named E. T. Sprague. The question was put on Mr. Little's nomination first, and there was a deluge of ayes, and the roar of noes was enough to make the building tremble. A division of the house was called for, and Major Bird and Nelson Empey were appointed as tellers.

Mr. Taylor wanted it understood that no one but a legal voter should have a vote, and on motion of Mr. VanHorne, all who were not legal voters were requested to withdraw, but as there was no way in which the matter might be settled, it was resolved to ask them to withdraw, and leave it to their honor as to whether they had a right to remain or not.

The vote on chairman resulted in 51 for Mr. Little. It became evident before the vote for Mr. Sprague was taken, that the non-Mormons were counted but one side of the hall, and they had a sufficient number to swamp the vote on the other side, and they so announced to the chair.

Mr. Sprague was loudly called for, and came forward to the stand. In taking the chair, he made a few remarks, in the course of which he said he had, of late particularly, had but very little experience as a presiding officer, but hoped with a kind assistance of the many present, to be able to discharge the duties satisfactorily. "There are many of us," he said, "who are present tonight, who have lived close together for many years, yet we have not known each other as well as we should have done, and such occasions as this gives us a chance to mingle more freely than we have been in the habit of doing. The party feeling is strong, I know, and we have not associated together much. If we had been more sociable, possibly we would have had less distrust of each other. Let us not forget that we have interests in common, and let us hope that hereafter our respect for each other's rights may be increased."

J. B. Walden was elected secretary. On motion, the chair appointed two tellers, and he named H. G. Park and Major Bird to act in that capacity. The regular order of business was suspended, and the meeting proceeded to the election of a trustee.

George R. Maxwell placed in nomination E. B. Critchlow as trustee for the 13th Ward. Mr. Woolley nominated William Naylor.

Mr. M. B. Sowles, E. Wilkes, B. R. Eldredge and H. A. Woolley were appointed judges of election.

There was some discussion as to when the polls were to be closed, some suggesting at 9:30 and others at 10 o'clock. It was finally decided to close the polls at 9:30. Ballot-boxes then commenced, and there was a rush for the ballot-box.

The mood was fought off by the chairman, in order to give the judge and tellers a chance for breathing room, and it became evident that unless some kind of order was restored, it would be at least a week before the balloting was finished. As it was, there was a perfect pandemonium, and it was finally decided to vote from the list, and in alphabetical order. Then the tumult subsided, and the sweating multitude went back to their seats.

Balloting was over by 9:30, and then came the counting of the votes, during which almost absolute silence reigned.

When Chairman Sprague announced the result, however, the silence was succeeded by such a yell as would have put a band of Apaches to the blush, and it was some time before the assemblage could be brought to order. The vote stood—Critchlow, 113; Naylor, 60.

The trustees' report and other school matters were considered after the vote had been announced.

SEVENTH DISTRICT.

Trustee B. G. Raybold called the meeting to order promptly at 7:30, when on the mention of the selection of a chairman, and the nomination of J. R. McBride by the Liberals and Isaac M. Waddell by the People, for the position, a regular hullabaloo of motions, suggestions and indiscriminate remarks, parliamentary and otherwise, were indulged in to the extent of creating the impression to passers-by on the outside that Bedlam had broken loose and somebody in the schoolhouse was trying to confine it. Mr. Raybold was puzzled, and made two or three ineffectual attempts to be heard, but at last he was heard saying: "It is to be manifested by the registered voters of this district who shall be chairman."

O. J. Hollister said he was ashamed to be a party to such a tumult, and moved that the registered voters arise and be counted by two tellers, appointed by the chair. This being done, and the audience thinned out of some youngsters who had no business in the meeting, the voters were requested to stand up and be counted. Isaac M. Waddell received 64 and J. R. McBride 53 votes, on the announcement of which there was deafening applause.

Herbert Van Dam was nominated and elected by acclamation to be secretary.

David McKenzie moved to proceed with the election of trustee, and stated that the financial report would be read, and that the chair appoint three judges to take and count the vote for trustee.

An amendment was offered by Mr. LeMoine that the financial report be read first. The amendment was put and carried. Secretary Van Dam then proceeded to read the financial report which was accepted. It is as follows:

B. G. RAYBOLD, T. C. BAILEY, D. MCKENZIE, Trustees.

Audited by Charles H. Brink and found correct, July 6, 1887.

The motion that the chair appoint three judges of election brought forth some debate, Mr. Varian wishing to offer an amendment that they be elected from the body of the house and not appointed by the chair. The amendment was put and lost.

An assistant secretary was chosen in the person of Mr. Terhune. Messrs. A. H. Kelly, Parsons and Dinwoodey were named by Colonel Kaighn as judges.

Mr. Hollister suggested that each side name one and both sides the third. Will Brown, David McKenzie and Henry Wallace were named for judges. Will Brown was put first and he was rejected. D. McKenzie was put second and he was rejected.

On the "those opposed" being called, a voice was heard, "stand up, every Gentle, and on the announcement of the result, there was a perfect pandemonium of yelling.

The three names nominated by Col. Kaighn were put in a lump and elected. A vote of thanks to all the trustees was unanimously given.

The nomination for trustee for the next three years being in order, Col. Kaighn nominated, "that old soldier, good citizen and teacher, Francis M. Bishop," and David McKenzie nominated a "gentleman who had faithfully served the district for many years, Henry M. Wallace."

The result of the balloting was the election of Prof. F. M. Bishop, the vote standing: F. M. Bishop, 102; Henry M. Wallace, 67.

EIGHTH DISTRICT.

The crowd of voters which assembled in front of the Eighth Ward Schoolhouse shortly after 7 o'clock, last evening, showed the interest taken by the voters in the election of the school trustees in that district.

Just before 8 o'clock the crowd swarmed into the little east wing of the building and proceeded to business.

Trustee Alley stated the object of the meeting and called for nominations for chairman. John T. Smity was nominated as the People's candidate and H. W. Lawrence by the Liberals, but declined. O. F. Miles was then named, but he also declined, and Captain Greenman was finally selected. The acting chairman called for the ayes and noes, which were given, but as it was impossible to decide by this method, which side had the majority, a ruse was called for, when Mr. Jessup moved that the vote be by ballot. This motion was carried, and the voters deposited their ballots, they were then counted by the crash behind them. When all had voted, the large room was opened, and the votes were counted amid great excitement. The result was: Mr. Smith, 47; Mr. Greenman, 57. The announcement was received with applause by the Liberals.

Mr. Greenman took the chair, and in a few words asked that good order be maintained.

Mr. Thomas was nominated and elected secretary, without opposition.

Mr. Alley then read the financial and statistical report of the trustees for the school year, which was accepted.

It was moved and carried that the chair appoint one from each side of the house to select a third.

The amendment was carried and John Marshall, C. F. Wilcox and Jesse W. Fox, Jr. were appointed as judges.

Mr. H. P. Richards placed in nomination for trustee Mr. T. G. Webber. Mr. Merritt said that while the nominee was a personal friend of his yet he would place in nomination Mr. L. H. Farnsworth, a young man, a native of the district. (Applause.)

These being the only nominations made, balloting was at once proceeded with, and a rush and tumult ensued. Among the prominent non-Mormons noticed in the frantic throng were Col. Merritt, Judge Rosborough, Commissioner Thomas, Secretary Hall, John Marshall, P. H. Lannan, Ex Governor Murray and hosts of others. It was evident from the vote for secretary that the People had an uphill fight.

Each voter appeared anxious to deposit his vote and go home, but before any votes were taken the registry list was brought out and examined. It was a very unruly and disorderly assemblage, and would have required fifty policemen with clubs to keep them in order, let alone a single chairman.

At 10 o'clock was announced as closed, S. C. Ewing and George Bourne were appointed to witness the counting of the votes, which took place in another room. At 11 o'clock the work was finished, and the result announced: T. G. Webber 72, L. H. Farnsworth 107. This was greeted with a series of demoniacal yells, and calls for "Farnsworth," but that gentleman failed to materialize.

The report of the trustees and other business was attended to, after which the meeting adjourned.

TWELFTH DISTRICT.

Long before 8 o'clock last evening the Twelfth District schoolhouse and surroundings were very "Liberal" aspect. At 8 o'clock, sharp, the voters of the ward were seated in the hall and the clink of watch cases told that the people were anxious for the opening of the meeting.

Trustee J. D. Lyon called the meeting to order and nominated as chairman T. V. Williams.

Mr. Hoffman nominated Thomas Marshall.

A motion was made that the vote for chairman be by ballot. Carried. The chair appointed as tellers, William McKay, James Jack, L. G. Hardy and T. R. Jones. Messrs. C. S. Wilkes and G. D. Pyper were appointed as challengers of all not entitled to vote.

The vote for chairman resulted as follows: For Thomas Marshall, 66 votes; for Thomas V. Williams, 50 votes.

On motion of Mr. Williams, Mr. Marshall's election was made unanimous.

On motion of Mr. McKay, George D. Pyper was elected secretary.

The call for the meeting was then read, after which the trustees presented their report for the past year, which was accepted.

The election of a trustee was then announced to be in order, and the nominations were made as follows: Liberal, J. F. Millsbaugh; People, J. D. Lyon.

The chair announced as judges of election: T. V. Williams, F. H. Dyer, Henry T. McEwan and J. E. Dooley.

The balloting resulted as follows: J. F. Millsbaugh, 70; J. D. Lyon, 53. The Liberal candidate, Mr. Millsbaugh, was declared elected.

Mr. McKay said that he understood some $1,100 had been the total amount of tuition for the past year, and he thought the best of sources that previous to the year the meeting was called, a school, with a taxation to cover the amount, which would be small. He moved that the trustees be instructed to call a meeting of the ward in December, for the purpose of considering the levying of a tax and establishing a free school. Carried.

Adjourned.

FIFTEENTH DISTRICT.

In this district the outcome was a close shave for the People's nominees, and startled many who had not considered that there would be any opposition. But the Liberals went quietly and diligently to work on Sunday and all day yesterday, drumming up their voters and marshaling their forces to win. The result, as noted below, shows how well they succeeded and how tight the vessel was caught in the Fifteenth District, and how the People's choice were elected by the "skin of their teeth."

The meeting was called to order by Trustee William R. Jones, when John Clark was nominated by W. S. Burton for chairman and E. R. Clute by A. L. Williams. The first received 78 votes and the latter 64.

W. S. Burton was elected secretary.

The chair, on motion, appointed E. R. Clute, A. S. Gray and Thomas Hull as tellers.

The following were then put in nomination: Thomas Hull, Thomas Dobson, and A. L. Williams for the long term, and E. G. Holding, W. L. Pickard and A. S. Gray for the short term.

The voting by ballot proceeded with the following result:

Thomas Hull, three years, 79 votes.
A. L. Williams, " " 72
E. G. Holding, two years, 75
W. L. Pickard, " " 70

The financial report was read and accepted and the meeting adjourned.

SEVENTEENTH WARD.

In the Seventeenth District the meeting was presided over by G. G. Bywater, and George E. Howe was secretary.

There was no opposition manifested, and John Tingey was elected to the trusteeship, for three years, to succeed E. A. Smith, who retired. The report of the trustees for the past school year was accepted.

EIGHTEENTH DISTRICT.

A large turnout of voters came to the meeting in the Eighteenth District to elect a trustee in place of James Saville, whose term expired. Robert Patrick was chairman and James Barker secretary. The election resulted in the choice of J. S. Jensen as trustee.

NINTH DISTRICT.

In the Ninth District there were some signs of opposition, a number of Liberals and Young Democrats coming out to live the occasion.

Imuri Brown was chosen chairman and Ebor Case secretary. The two nominees voted for were John F. Oblad and J. B. Moreton; Mr. Oblad, People's nominee, received twenty-three votes and J. B. Moreton ten votes.

TWENTY-THIRD DISTRICT.

The school trustee meeting held in the Twenty-third District last evening was called to order by Trustee Oliver Hodgson, who nominated D. R. Lyon for chairman, which was not opposed.

On motion of Mr. Romney, Mr. James T. Dunbar was elected secretary.

The financial report of the past year was read and adopted.

In consequence of there being two resignations and the third trustee's term having expired it was necessary to elect three trustees, which was done by acclamation, and resulted as follows:

Henry Pusey three years.
Oliver Hodgson two years.
O. D. Romney one year.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

MORE NOMINATIONS.

A RAILWAY WASH IN.

The Utah Central's Difficultly—Other Notes of the Storm.

The rainstorm of Sunday evening was without doubt the heaviest that has visited this section for many years. In City Creek Canyon it raged with terrific force, swelling the stream to a size that would have made the heart of a dry-bencher jump for joy. It was at first feared that the new waterworks would sustain some damage, but as it now transpires, the fears were groundless.

In Emigration Canyon, Watermaster Wilken reports an immense cloud-burst, which carried away a portion of the dam, and caused a loss of about $100.

On the Jordan range, between this city and Garfield, a heavy rain fell. As a passenger on the Utah & Nevada put it, "it didn't stop to sprinkle, but came down in sheets, and it was not long before the just rabbits were all afloat, using their ears for sails." Nearly all the passengers on the open cars of the 445 train received a free bath on the out trip, and arrived at the lake only to find the waves rolling so high as to deter many from venturing in.

Ham Beattie, who was returning from East Canyon, says he never saw such a rainstorm in his life as the one that raged while he was coming over the Big Mountain. It was but a few moments before everyone in that vicinity was drenched to the skin, and water to the depth of fifteen inches was rushing and surging down the road. So far as he learned, however, but little damage was done, and this was mainly to the roads.

All through the city the rain fell in perfect torrents, but beyond the flooding of several cellars and the drenching of those unfortunate enough to be out minus an umbrella, no particular damage was done.

The Utah Central track, near the Point of the Mountain south, suffered considerably. An immense body of water came tearing down the mountain side, from thence into the ravines, and then onto the railway track, carrying large quantities of sand, rocks, brush and other debris, blocking the track and other debris, blocking the track for three-quarters of a mile. It was impossible to clear the track sufficiently to admit of a train passing, so word was sent on to Salt Lake and the passengers transferred to another train. They were delayed several hours, however, not reaching this city before 11 p.m. The track was cleared about daybreak and the delayed train came on to Salt Lake.

DEVASTATION AT VILLMORE.

FILLMORE, Utah, July 11.—Last evening, a flood again devastated Fillmore and the surrounding country. The greatest damage was done in the mountains east of this place. Three saw mills with logs and lumber, aggregating thousands of feet, were swept entirely away. Half a large sheep head was lost, the herders narrowly escaping with their lives. The damage done will materially affect the whole country.

SCARCITY OF WATER.

No Sprinkling Allowed Between 8 in the Morning and 6 in the Afternoon.

To the Water Takers.

The extremely low stage of water in City Creek renders it necessary that special attention be given at this season to the following provisions of the ordinance in relation to water works:

Sec. 11.—If any water taker shall waste water, or allow it to be wasted by negligence, such as imperfect stops, or valves, or leaky joints, or pipes, or allowing tanks to leak or to overflow, or wastefully run through basins or other apparatus, or use water
